WE NOMINATE

Harry Hammond Hess, internationally known geologist and a full-time Princetonian since 1945, whose research interests range from ocean basins millions of square miles in size to the fourth and fifth decimal places in indices of refraction. Thrice in recent months this 60-year old native of New York has been singled out for major distinctions. First it was the $32,000 Feltrinelli Prize, awarded by the oldest of the world's academies of arts and sciences; then the Penrose Medal of The Geological Society of America; and this past week his appointment by President Johnson to the 12-member blue-ribbon panel that selects the annual winners of the National Medal of Science.

One of Hess' senior associates in the University, who called his achievements to TOWN TOPICS' attention, enjoys reminiscing that Hess several years ago was President of the Geological Society of America, Chairman of the Space Science Board of the National Academy of Sciences and a member of the Executive Committee of the ill-starred "Mohole Project," concerned with determining the nature of the earth's core by drilling 15,000-to-30,000 feet below sea level. In addition, at the same time he was helping plan an eventual X-ray analysis of surface materials on the moon, was guiding a geologic research project in cooperation with the Venezuelan and Columbia governments and was a full-time teacher here in Guyot Hall.

Over the decades, following his graduation from Yale with the Class of 1927, initiative, energy, a probing imagination and a sense of urgency have been Hess' hallmarks. His first overseas assignment carried him to Central Africa where as a consulting geologist he hiked more than 3,000 miles, lived among natives who had seldom seen a Westerner, and learned to survive on what his rifle could provide. He returned in 1929, entered Princeton's Graduate School, and in 1931 began research in the Caribbean, measuring the earth's gravity field on U. S. Navy submarines and inaugurating an affiliation which now places him among the highest-ranking officers in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

In 1911 Hess, extremely successful in promoting cooperative research programs involving Princeton students and Latin Americans, was called to active duty in the Navy. He initially devised a system of estimating the daily positions of German submarines in the Atlantic. Requesting sea duty in 1943, he was assigned to the submarine decoy vessel, Big Horn, described by one naval historian as the most hazardous of all naval assignments in World War II. He was eventually transferred to the Pacific and, in turn, became navigator or, executive officer and captain of the assault transport, "USSM Cape Johnson," a distinguished participant in combat landings on the Marianas, the Philippines and Iwo Jima.

Even in the far reaches of the Pacific, while the "Cape Johnson" was plodding from one destination to the next, Hess succeeded in continuing his research activities. In taking 250,000 miles of soundings in the Pacific, he made one of the most significant discoveries of the century relative to the topography of the Pacific ocean basin — the finding between Hawaii and the Marianas of flat-topped sea-mounts, ancient islands drowned 3,000 to 6,000 feet below present sea level, which he named "Guyots" in honor of the first Professor of Geology at Princeton, Arnold Guyot, first incumbent of the professorship Hess now holds.

For his outstanding "original contributions and achievements which work a decided advance in science and geology; for possessing the remarkable kind of "split vision" permitting him to look upward and outward" to the largest research effort in submarine geology ever undertaken; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

SCHOOL PLANS APPROVED

Middle School, Pupils Assurances. "The major question is this: Is this going to be a truly regional school system or not? The sooner we make up our minds, the better, and that means no later than September, 1967."

The speaker was Dr. John J. McKenna, acting superintendent of the Princeton Regional School system, architect of the Middle School idea and, with William Rhodes and Edward Waxwood Jr., engineer of the rearrangement of pupils in a new series of "attendance zones."

After a three-hour hearing Tuesday night in the auditorium of John Witherspoon School, a meeting attended by approximately 150 people, the new Regional Board unanimously passed both the pupil allocation plan and the Middle School proposal. Both will be put into effect in September. The board named Eugene Binger, now principal of Community Park, as principal of the Middle School.

In essence, it was merger all over again. Because it's all very well to vote "yes" on a merged school system, but when it comes right down to melding the two disparate school systems into a single entity, there are cries of anguish.

What does the melding process involve? It means a single curriculum, where there are still two. It means a single faculty, assigned throughout the system, where there are still two.

It means children from the John-Witherspoon area dispersed on a regular, geographic basis among the four elementary schools. It means blocking out a pupil-attendance pattern to reflect a single district. It means that Middle School in which sixth, seventh and eighth grades from Borough and Township are stirred into a single school community.

But Not For Me. Many of these dislocations from pre-merger times are genuinely disturbing to many people, and many solutions are admittedly imperfect. Mrs. George Freson, new president of the board, her fellow board members and Dr. McKenna, repeatedly said on Tuesday night that the pupil allocation plan, for example, is not perfect.

"We have the least possible dislocation under this plan," commented Dr. Robert A. Lively, of the board. "It is not perfect, but it provides the best for the best children in the longest period of time we can foresee."

Mrs. Fremon emphasized in answer to repeated questioning that the pupil allocation arrangement is not for one year only, "but for as long as we can manage to keep it."

Most of the protests seemed to come from parents with children now attending Johnson Park School. Many of these children — 33 in fact — will be transferred to John Witherspoon under the new plan. The ominous shadow of Township houses yet unbuilt hung over the meeting, and many parents pointed to that shadow, and said "If the Township grows and Johnson Park School will have to be enlarged eventually, why move our children out now?"

Karl Light, real estate broker who is also president of the Johnson Park PTA, told the audience he had made a survey, at the board's request, and estimated that 150 new families in the area between Route 206 and The Great Road will be built on during the next two to five years. This is currently Johnson Park territory assigned next fall to John Witherspoon.

Dr. McKenna reminded the audience that many Johnson Park residents have complained of overcrowding.

"We could leave everybody in Johnson Park," he said, "but classes would be too large. And we must move some children into Johnson Park to change its educational pattern. Besides, to put it candidly, we hear hearing people say 'Reduce the size of those classes but don't move MY child!'"

Plan to Expand. "It seems to me we must plan now for expansion — of Johnson Park, Princeton High School and Community Park School," observed board vice-president E. Frederick Lassever.

He made the comment after Dr. McKenna had repeated his detailed explanation of the way Community Park and Valley Road Schools will be consolidated into a single Middle School for grades six, seven and eight, Borough and Township, boys and girls, smart and medium-smart, vocational and academic, Negro and white. He has outlined the project before at two previous board meetings.

"In concerned about the number of children we can accommodate in those two schools," said board member Harvey Rothberg. He said the system now has 996 youngsters in those grades, but already has 1,140 in grades three-four-five. "Where will these children go, when they are grades six-seven-eight?" he asked.

Dr. McKenna said that two more full sections could be squeezed in but that Middle School's youngsters would then have to move into the rooms of John Witherspoon set aside for high school overflow, or rooms assigned in hope of four-year old kindergartners.

Questions Middle School.

Dr. Rothberg told her that all candidates for the superintendency, so far, have recommended establishment of a Middle School immediately. As for pupil allocation, Mrs. Freeman pointed out that a new superintendent always goes into a ready-made establishment, to work with what he finds there.

Members of the audience returned often to the idea of long-range planning, and one speaker suggested that citizen experts be invited to contribute ideas.

At the start of the meeting, Mrs. Freeman said, announced formation of a new board committee on Planning and Facilities to be led by Dr. Rothberg with Mrs. Bonnie Wagner and Winthrop S. Brown as the board's members. This group will be happy to receive suggestions, Mrs. Freeman said.

"There is tremendous strength in our two faculties," Dr. Kleinberg said at one point in the evening. "We must bring them together. The sooner we weld this system into a single, unified group, the sooner Princeton can start toward its goal of the best in education. Change can be a threatening moment or an exciting new venture..."

OFFICERS NAMED

By School Board. At the formal re-organization meeting of the Princeton Regional School Board Monday night, the board elected Mrs. George Freeman president and E. Fredrick Lischewer vice president. Mrs. Freeman was nominated by Dr. Harvey Kuhn, former board president. It is hard policy to rotate the chairmanship.

William Evans was appointed Secretary-Business Manager for the board. The board secretary has been Norman J. Anderson, but he resigned as of February 28 to accept another position, and the board decided to combine the two jobs into one. Mr. Evans has been business manager.

Thomas P. Cook was appointed board counsel.

ASK NEW LEADING

Of Health Codes. At meetings of both Township and Borough Boards of Health last week, board members were asked to change their interpretation of municipal housing codes to allow for routine regular inspections of rental housing. At present, both boards inspect only if there is a complaint.

The requests grew out of Township situation last month in which three apartment tenants moved out of a house after a dispute with the landlord over alleged violations of the Township's housing code. TOWNSHIP TOPICS, February 1967.

The Township meeting was chiefly occupied with discussion of a letter to Mrs. Marcelle C. Farley, municipal health officer, from four petitioners: Mrs. Doris Burrell, Mrs. Lester V. Chandler, Mrs. Howard Kuhn and James Pines.

In the letter, the signers said, "We want the health officer to be directed by the board to inspect rental housing twice yearly on a regular basis, in all areas of jurisdiction where past experience and common knowledge indicate there is a likelihood of finding violations."

The Right to Examine.

The letter points out that when the Township office was adopted, Township Committee deleted a clause giving the health officer the right to examine property for health hazards about to take over. This would mean, the signers state, that deteriorating property could not be passed along indefinitely without correction.

At Thursday's meeting, Dr. William Kleinberg, president of the Board of Health, said Committee believed at the time that such a regulation would be an invasion of privacy. Burton Peskin, Committee member assigned to the Board of Health, observed that Hamilton Township now has such a provision, and he questioned its constitutionality, by adding that no state court had ever ruled on the matter.

Pay A Fine?

Mrs. Kuhn reminded the board that the code contains a provision for levying fines against violators, and she said that fines had never been levied so far, but might prove to have a salutary effect.

Referring to frequent suggestions that tenants themselves might commit many violations, Mrs. Pines said that if a landlord fixed up his property, he could be selective about tenants and wait until he found some who would take care of the premises. Mrs. Kuhn observed that tenants haven't much incentive to care for property already in disrepair.

Dr. Kleinberg said the question would be discussed again by the board at its March meeting.

At the Borough Board of Health meeting, Mrs. Ulli Stelzner made the same request, asking Dr. J. Leonard Moore, president, and David Blake, health officer, to make routine, regular inspection of rental units in cases where past experience indicates a likelihood of finding a violation.

KINGSTON CURVE TO GO
In Route 27 Re-alignment. After a public hearing scheduled for Tuesday, March 28, the hazardous Kingston Bridge will be just another historic footpath.

The state Department of Transportation announced this week that a public hearing on the 2,300-foot re-alignment will be held in Princeton Township Hall at 10:30 a.m. on March 28. Residents of Princeton, Franklin and South Brunswick Townships are invited to attend.

Plans call for construction of two new bridges, one across the Millstone and the other over the Delaware and Raritan Canal (see map). The state plans to keep the by-passed section of roadway and the existing bridges, including historic Route 27 bridges, whose barrel-arched stone-works date to 1790, and the other bridge, near the grist mill. Pedestrians will be able to reach the Millstone River Bridge from the Princeton Township side.

The new section of Route 27 will have two 12-foot-wide lanes and 10-foot outside shoulders, compared to the present pair of 10-foot-wide lanes with shoulders varying from nothing at all to five feet.

Over the years, the Kingston Bridge has been a motorist's nightmare. So far this year, there have been two accidents on the bridge itself, and last year there were 11—these are Princeton Township police figures only.

In 1965, there were six Princeton Township accidents on the bridge and in 1964, two.

Beauty ON THE SQUARE
By Archimedes (Bernard)

Winter Hair Conditioner

Do you know that your hair changes from season to season? Do you realize that in winter dandruff and scalp flaking are more apt to occur and that hair becomes less lustrous—takes on a flatter look because of hair wear?

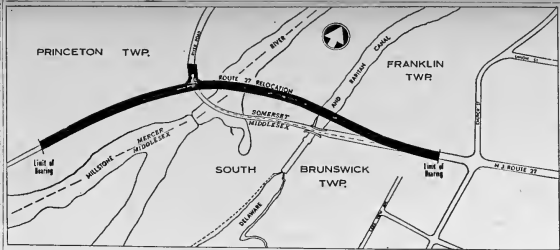

In winter women need better hair care and should go to their beauty shops more frequently for hair treatments that will restore bounce and vitality—and for permanence that will give body to the hair. During winter your hair needs a great deal of pampering and pruning.

There are other conditions that affect your hair, especially if you take winter vacations. A trip to the northern ski country or to unheated southern shores can have a definite effect on your hair even though you may be taking only a short vacation.

A good pre-treatment is to cover your hair—whenever it is exposed to sun or wind. But who in the world can remember to do this each and every time? You're, I'm sure, having so much fun on a ski run with the wind whirling tangles to your cheeks that you forget that your skin or hair is tucked under your belt or buried in the snow. Or, when you are lying lazily by the pool or ocean and the sun feels so good, you don't feel like going back to your room to get that protective scarf or hat.

But then, you are suddenly aware that your hair is dry. What to do? Have professional hair treatments at TAYLOR, ERNWOOD, BEAUTY MANOR. Or, your hair will quickly reflect natural sheen and sparkle.

HOSPITAL TOPS GOAL
Merwick Addition Set
Princeton Hospital's first annual capital fund appeal has raised $119,000, surpassing the $75,000 goal by $44,000. It was reported at the corporation's yearly meeting on Monday.

The hospital will now move ahead with its plans for the expansion of Merwick. Construction of facilities for 50 additional convalescent and long-term care beds will begin as soon as working drawings are completed.

The capital fund appeal brought contributions from 130 individuals, one-third of whom live outside Princeton Borough and Township—indicating increased awareness of the hospital's role as a community health center. The donors included 733 first-time contributors.

Awards. Twenty-six employees, representing a total of 180 years of service, received the newly-designed blue and gold service pin from George W. Conover, president of the trustees, and Administrator John W. Kaufman. The 25-year award went to Cecil Sinclair, operating room technician, and the 10-year award was given to Mrs. Flora Boggs, operating room technician.

Three volunteers were cited by Mr. Conover: Leslie L. Vivian Jr. for service as trustee and secretary of the Princeton Hospital Corporation; Mrs. Charles B. Hannon, president of the Women's Auxiliary; and Dr. Richard L. Baruch for his leadership as president of the medical and dental staff during the past year.

Mason Elcebed, Attorney Ralph S. Mason, was elected to the 11-member board of trustees. Dr. Robert S. Garfield, Dr. Frank E. Caplin, James Carey and Samuel Frothingham were re-elected.

Departing from the usual format of its written annual report the Hospital will present a four-page "Report to the Community" stressing several phases of the patient care services. The report includes a series of illustrated articles discussing the home care program, the improved emergency service program, the present psychiatric and mental health care, plans for developing a coronary care unit and on appraisal of the laboratory and radiology (X-ray) units which will be moving into larger quarters near hearing completion.

Copies of the report are available at the hospital main desk or by written request.

BY-PASS?
Not Quite Yet. A meeting of minds and opinions on Route 27-A (the "Princeton By-pass") is still on the calendar of the future.

Assemblyman Charles Farrington of Princeton has asked Somerset's Senator William Orzard and Middlesex's Senator John Lynch to confer with him and with state highway officials about the by-pass. However, Mr. Farrington said.

NEW BRIDGE AT KINGSTON: This state highway department map shows, in heavy black line, the planned re-alignment of Route 27 and the position of the bridges over the Millstone, replacing bridges that have been a traffic hazard for generations. The present route is shown in dotted line. The relocation will provide about 1,000 feet south of the present Millstone River Bridge and will swing about 150 feet west of the bridge at its northern point. The road will return to its present alignment about 500 feet north of the present canal bridge.

The Winds of Change

Here comes March,
With a Great Big Blow!
Got that like up?
Look out below!

No one needed a calendar to know it was March, but the winds that help change the seasons are about to blow some milder air this way. Along about Friday, with the higher temperatures possibly bringing Saturday showers but staying around for the weekend.

Wonder why there's still a lot of snow on the ground as March arrives? It's because February's 24.7 inches of snow were the largest amount to bury New Jersey during that month in the current century. That figure topped every year since 34 inches fell in 1939.

SERVICES HELD

For Robert Oppenheimer, Memorial services held Saturday in Alexander Hall for Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer drew more than 600 persons, including three distinguished speakers and men of renown in the fields of science, government and the humanities.

The speakers were George F. Kennan, professor at the Institute for Advanced Study and at Princeton University; Henry DeW. Smyth, United States Ambassador of the International Atomic Energy Commission in Vienna; and Hans A. Bethe, professor of physics at Cornell.

Dr. Smyth had been the only member of the United States Atomic Energy Commission who gave a supporting vote to Dr. Oppenheimer in the two decisions branding the physicist a security risk and he recalled that occasion on Saturday.

"As the sole commissioner to dissent from the majority opinion, I voted to reinstate Dr. Oppenheimer's clearance on the grounds that careful and objective examination of the total evidence . . . did not support the severe conclusions of the majority that he should be debarr'd from serving his country . . ."

Dr. Smyth reminded his audience that the Oppenheimer case occurred during "the height of the McCarthy period. It was a horrible period in America history and we paid horribly for it."

"Such a wrong," he said, in continuing reference to Dr. Oppenheimer and the McCarthy era, "can never be righted such a blot on our history can never be erased."

"The Dark Days." In his address, Dr. Kennan also described "the dark days of the early fifties," and said he had once suggested to Dr. Oppenheimer that he must go abroad to live. "His answer given to me with tears in his eyes," said Dr. Kennan, "was, 'Damn it, I happen to love this country.'"

"Here in Princeton," Dr. Kennan continued, "he had his tasks, achievements and satisfactions." He described Dr. Oppenheimer's work in developing the Institute for Advanced Study into a center for the purest and highest sort of scientific and intellectual effort; providing hospitality and encouragement to scholars from all over the world and setting an example of the scientific mind at its best.

Dr. Bethe recalled Dr. Oppenheimer's concern over the modern scientist's inability to communicate with the intelligent layman, and Dr. Kennan as an intelligent layman, told the audience that he had himself caught "something of the wonder and enthusiasm Dr. Oppenheimer felt for the world of science."

At McCarter. A substantial patent has come to McCar-ter in the form of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" third in the spring series of repertory productions.
McCarter's young director, Anthony Simms, has joined with the composer, Frank Lewin, in the costume-setting designer, Charles D. Tomlinson, and the lighting experts Clyde Blaikely and Marshall Williams, to present a charming spectacle.

Mr. Simms is fortunate in having three strong actors in the leading roles. Prospero, the magician-ruler of the magic isle, is played with stern dignity by Peter Bailey-Britton, an actor with resonant voice and commanding delivery of Shakespeare's magic poetry. A certain oddness of manner is regrettable in Mr.
Bailey-Britton's interpretation, but otherwise, he carries the role with splendor.
As Ariel, Susan Babel is spiritedly and articulately, with the necessary grace of body and the very pleasant habit of speaking her lines so they can be heard. She sings Mr.
Lewin's songs with lilt and charm, and you will remember particularly "Come Unto These Yellow Sands," in which she guides the enchanted Ferdinand.

Caliban is George Hearn, wrapped with fish-scale and evil, yet somehow sympathetic and pitiable. It's an easy part to avoid, but Mr. Hearn remains within bounds.

Supporting Cast Strong. In lesser roles, Jake Dengel works over Trinculo with the wonderful comic spirit he brought to the part of the slave in "Braggart Warrior," and Michael Macfate as Stephano, realizes all the possibilities in Shakespeare's drunken clown. The scene with Cal-iban, when Trinculo takes shelter under the monster's cloak and thereby presents to the drunken Stephano a vision of a four-legged sea beast, is a comic delight.
Other parts are less well realized. The two lovers, The King and his shipwrecked court, Miranda and Ferdinand, are pleasing enough but wooden.

Mr. Simms has arranged for the two lovers a charming, leisurely scene of tea with Lauren Jones as Miranda and Michael Schultz as Ferdinand, a laughing chase over the levels and around the various masses that constitute the "Tempest" set. It's a happy pause in action and disordine, one of the few changes of pace in a production which needs more pauses, more moments of dramatic and silent suspense. Prospero's sudden dismissal of the spirits in the pagan, for example, comes almost as another line of dis-logue. Instead of a sharp break in mood and action.

In the pigment itself, Mr.
Simms has arranged to have parlards of lights descend from above and the costumed figures of Ceres, Juno and Jupiter move in stylized grace through their carefully stylized lines.

tuming has been done with an play imagination that was Foucault in a flowing robe of shimmering gold stripes, and sends Ariel leaping from the wings in luminous pale green from how to top, with silvery sparkles to catch the light.

Caliban, of course, is a model of scaly elegance. Just why Mr. Antonioni has dressed his three godesses in 18th century style when everyone else is in Elizabethan ruff is a mystery that's part of the magic.

Underlining the entire production is original music written for McArthur's "Tempest" by Frank Lewin, composer who makes his home in Princeton. He may mention his most memorable song, "Full Fathom Five" and "Where the Sea Buries Me" as well as Viel himself and the guttural music written for Caliban is properly menacing. A theatrical composer by profession,
Mr. Lewin brings precisely the right amount of theatrically to his music, never allowing it to obtrude and according it with simplicity for harp, flute or trombone.

It is a happy evening of Shakespearean pageantry and the tempest itself is overcome the thunder stops competing with the actors, you can hear all the lines and enjoy the poetry, philosophy and spectacle of a matchless play.

IT'S NEW To Us

NOTICE ME!
You know "Madie Mae" isn't the prime line this spring at Elle, the little boutique on Chambers Street, but we mention it first just to lure you in. More later.

Wippette, that junior lmp, is the high card in the spring deal. Elle downs pleats (dare I say) baby look in a very fine crinkle cotton done up in unlikely pastels like violet with narrow line and coral stripe or clear stripes with minute flower flowers.

These dresses have squared-off and banded necklines, long banded sleeves and a quartet of striped bands (dare I say) away from the yoke. (Another style has a single inverted flange making an A-line down from the yoke.)

MODERN CARPETING'S LONG-LASTING QUALITIES MAKE IT ECONOMICAL

Tufting, the modern method of making carpets, is only 10 years old. By using hundreds of tufting "hands" at once, has made it possible to produce carpet at least 8 times faster than a power loom. Today, the average price is $2 a yard less than carpet cost 16 years ago.

Brand new qualities have been added to carpet with the new fibers such as nylon, acrylic, and polypropylene. By tufting is found in bathrooms, kitchens, school corridors, stores, and even outdoor areas.

Consumer confusion may be the outgrowth of the technological advances in carpet production with new terms such as tufted, sheared, acrylic and polypropylene.

At E. Bahadurian & Son, with our many years experience in caring for rugs, we feel qualified to assist and advise you in the selection of rugs and carpeting for your home. We have the facilities to handle any carpet job, room-size or wall-to-wall.

"No! Me!" thought I'd forgotten, didn't you? Well, who could forget a shocking pink cotton knit with a little round kelly green collar and that's ALL!

Yep, the collar, demure as it be, is into the halter that holds this deeply cut bare summer dress. Kelly goes in a wide band around the hem, too. Dress also comes in palest, shyest violet with a little round orange collar.

You'll also be noticed in a "matchbox" poplin print, so called because the dress has a panel stitched all the way from armhole to hem, and the stiffness of the poplin makes the dress a four-sided box. Prints in pink, yellow and kellys.

WHISKY AND SODA?
Nope — The Other Kind. The Irish being what they are and St. Patrick's Day looming, you might think that the combination of Irish and soda involves whiskey somewhere along the line, but not so.

Irish soda bread, ready to cut in 15 slices for a welcoming spread of butter, is baked these days in Laverneville at the Village Bakery. Brew a steaming cup of tea, and ask a friend to stop in for a cup and a slice. Irish soda bread, with raisins and carryway seeds made, for an Irish surprise. Tea biscuits, plain or with raisins, are a good three inches across and an inch thick. Where's the jam?

Egg rolls are not Easter festivities but the richest, fattest dinner rolls you could imagine. They are rather like the Jewish challa, bread sprinkled on top with poppy seed.

Another mix, with belted jacket, is very deep purple with small orange figures, and still a third is hot mustard with little orange suns printed all over it. Comes in turquoise, too.

Or try rich almond filling wrapped in a flaky dough, rather like a pig-in-blanket. The little Danish has been curved into a swirl so those pecans can't escape. Other Danes have cheese, cherry or prune filling.

Linzers here is a raspberry jam cookie sandwich. That lot on the counter is a 12-inch apple apricot, bursting with raisins, cinnamon and sugar.

WHIEFS SPRING
In a flower. If you think it's hard being to arrive, drop by Applegate's Floral Shop on Palmer Square and order an armful of spring to take home.

Dutch iris in white, yellow and orange blend randomly with yellow King Alfred daffodils and tulips in red, white or yellow.

Applegate likes best to mix all the spring flowers in one happy bundle combining Dutch iris and daffodils and tulips.

THE MIKADO: the famed D'Oyly Carte Opera Company's production of "The Mikado" by Gilbert and Sullivan, filmed in Technicolor, is coming to the RKO Trenton and Garden Theatres.

News Of The Theatres

"Outward from Rise" military justice and human compassion and the film version emphasizes this conflict as Captain Vere, portrayed by Peter Ustinov, confronts the young sailor, Billy Budd played by Terence Stamp. Other roles are played by Robert Ryan as Claggart, Melvyn Douglas and in a small role, David MacCallum.

"SHREW" ENTERTAINS Amusingly Performed. It would be churlish to disapprove of the unevenness of Theatre Intimate's "Taming of the Shrew" without first praising the verve and inventiveness which amused audiences last week at Murray Theatre. The spirited student production will be presented again this Thursday through Sunday.

Director Peter W. Platten and his cast have approached Shakespeare's broad revel with the necessary gusto and daring. They do justice to both the Bard's verbal wit and his unabashed use of the most convoluted situation humor.

Yet, despite the effective overall tone of the play, there are some rather obtrusive touches of Rocco on what is essentially a Tudor structure. Certainly, no one expects consistency of style in an Elizabethan play which is set in Padua, but by emphasizing the Italian aspects of the work, Mr. Platten dulls the edge of some of the more bawdy, unrestrained Elizabethan humor.

The extravagant, stylized and movements seem out of place in the Tudor framework, as does the anachronistic use of Baroque theme music. The satelites of Elizabethan music which are also used seem far more appropriate.

Acting Is Uneven. The acting is also somewhat uneven. As Petruchio, Bob Rockwell scores the appearance and perversity which are the rough shrew tamer's most salient qualities but fails to project the more sublimated characteristics of charm and warmth which are needed to make him a sympathetic hero.

Mr. Rockwell, however, comes closest to the performers to avoiding the perennial stumbling block of Shakespeare's dialogue. He handles Petruchio's witty style and a plumb.

Jon Lornah gives an amusing performance, shifting gears smoothly between two polar characterizations, as Tranio, the servant who impersonates Rupert MacNee. He is hilarious in a minor role of a stupefied servant, and Mark Hamilton performs ably as both the aged Grémio and the effeminate tailor.

Some of the players show an unfortunate tendency to rush their lines when confronted by Shakespeare's complex location. As Hortensio, Ed Towley is prone to this fault. So is Sheila Sheffield, who seems generally uncomfortable in

Night of the Generals (now playing), Hans Hellmuth Krumpholtz's successful best-selling novel about a Nazi given to murdering obscure prostitutes, is faithfully brought to the screen by director Anatole Litvak. Basically, it's a detective story about the tracking down of the murder by two patient and dedicated sleuths. It has some ironic philosophical overtones that put it on a somewhat higher level than a mere thriller.

Peter O'Toole is cast as the neurotic general who is one of the chief murder suspects. His acting is intense, often too theatrical, but it has a cumulative fascination. Omar Sharif is the German intelligence officer assigned to the case in Warsaw; and Tom Courtenay is a corporal who the real murderer tries to make his scapegoat. Other supporting parts generally are played by Donald Pleasence and Charles Gray.
Joanna Pettit (Kay in "The Group") is the general's daughter who falls in love with Courtenay, and Christopher Plummer does a walk-on in two scenes as Field Marshall Rommel.

The details of the plot are exciting and inventive although who a dunam addict may guess the villain before the detective. The irony is that in the middle of a bloody war, with thousands dying daily, a man is interested enough in seeing justice done to pursue the unmaking of one brutal sex killer. Performances are good.

The film runs almost two and a half hours . . . and is designed for the adult audience.

PRINCE

A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum (held over) is a mixture of farce and burlesque, set in ancient Rome. Zero Mostel stars, repeating his role in the Broadway version. (Reviewed in last week's issue.)

GARDEN

Ingram Bergman Film Festival (through next Wednesday). The festival repeats last year's successful venture, showing eight Bergman-directed films paired as double features.

The schedule: Juliet Interlude and Three Strange Lives (this Wednesday and Thursday); The Magician (Rabelian horror tale) and Smiles and Summer Night (comedy) this Friday and Saturday; Thursday, a Glass Darkly and The Devil's Eye on Sunday and Monday; Winter Light and Steppenwolf on next Tuesday and Wednesday.

with frezelle in lavender, yellow or white and anemones in all colors.

Meanwhile, this time of year, comes to Palmer Square from the French Riviera. Later, it will come up from Florida and the price will go down, but this is its sky and sunny charm right now! Heathy has just begun to arrive from Scotland and peppermint striped carnations are in from the Colorado growers.

You'll want a hyacinth plant, just about ready to buy its buds, or paper narcissus in a container and already started so you needn't go through the dark closet part.
Anemones are longer considered an autumn flower exclusively, and Applegate recommends for spring the pale yellow or white Fujis with their center of pale yellow stamens are beginning to appear in deep and characteristic shades of purple, violet and pink.
And African violet plants are clustered with double pink blooms, double purples or charming little single flowers. Spring? Of course!

DR. BLAKE HONORED
Alumni Fund Sets Record
Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson Award was presented to Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Secretary General of the World Council of Churches, at the 33rd annual mid-winter meeting of the Princeton Annual Alumni Association, held Saturday in Dillon Gym.
A record $2.7 million was reported raised in the recently-completed Annual Giving campaign among some 25,000 alumni, parents and friends. The total represented $200,000 above last year's drive.

The presentation to Dr. Blake, 60-year-old minister of the First Unitarian Church of New York, N.Y., and a variety football guard who was graduated from Princeton with the class of 1928 with honors in philosophy, was made by President Robert F. Goheen before some 1,200 alumni and guests.

Cited for his contributions "in the nation's service and in the service of the church and of mankind," Dr. Blake is former student clerk of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. and former president of the Church of Christ in the U.S.A. At the time of his election to his present post, he was a member of the World Council's Central and executive Committee and chairman of its division of inter-church aid, refugee and world service.

A number of precedents were set in the recent Annual Giving campaign. Chairman Douglas H. Hahn, Class of 1934, announced that the estimated Class of 1942, approaching its 25th reunion in June, in the first of its 25 years of annual giving campaigns to top the $300,000 mark. The 40th reunion class of 1907 exceeded $200,000; and 35 of the 25 living members of the class of 1917, which observed its 50th anniversary this June, contributed to the fund.

TOWNSHIP HOMES LOOTED
Maul Exceeds $160. Three Township homes were entered and ransacked by thieves last week who escaped with furniture and jewelry worth more than $3,000.

Hardest hit was the home of Charles H. Brown, 652 Princeton - Kingston Road, where police said a window in a rear door was punched out to gain entry.

Taken from Mrs. Brown's bedroom were three fur pieces, including a $2,000 full-length mink coat, five pieces of jewelry, the most expensive a 1,000-diamond pendant. A small transistor radio was also taken.

Police said the entire house was ransacked. The theft occurred Saturday between 9:30 a.m. and 8:30 in the evening. Sgt. Michael Lisi and Ptl. David Wilbur investigated.

Two diamond rings valued at $700 and a stamp and coin collection with a combined value of $200 were taken last week from the home of Dr. Willis Paine, 49 Galbreath Drive East. Police said the thief jimmied the front door. Charles J. Sailer, 307 Ledgerstone Road, reported his home had been entered and ransacked on Friday but he was unable to tell police what was missing, pending an inventory. Frank Roccaforte, the investigating officer, said a bar had been used to force rear door.

Harold G. McCann, 221-C Hillside Road, reported last week that upon returning from a vacation he discovered a typewriter and case which he valued at $160, missing from his study. Police said that was no sign of any forced entry.

Ask For Permit. In the wake of the house breakings, Township Detective Norman Servis urged all residents to ask to see the police permit of any caller who is soliciting anything—from selling magazines to driveway repairs. "If they don't have a permit," he said, "call the police." He added, "If they leave in a car, try to get its license number."

Pretending to be salesman is one method burglars use to learn which homes are unoccupied. Detective Servis pointed out. He reiterated the importance of reporting any suspicious persons to the police.

BIRTHS
Twenty-two Bora, Twelve boys and ten girls were born last week in Princeton Hospital.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Bretz, Conover Road, Hightstown, and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Bogard, 17

BOARD PRESIDENT PRESENTS BOOKS: The Maurice Hawk Library has received a donation of books from the West Windsor Township Board of Education in honor of former board president Bernard Mount, who died last fall. President W. Bradford Craig (right) makes the presentation to Gary Mount (left) representing the family, as Superintendent of Schools Frank J. Walton looks on.

both on February 23; and Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Buben, 134 Harris Road, Princeton Junction, February 25.

SCHOOL HEAD CHOSEN
In West Windsor, W. Bradford Craig, Princeton Junction, was re-elected president of the West Windsor Board of Education at its organizational meeting. Named vice-president was Michael Greshack. The Board of Education donated a number of books to the Maurice Hawk Library in honor of the late Bernard Mount, former board president. Representing the family during the ceremonies was Gary Mount.

The Board received its fifth teacher resignation of the school year, Mrs. Rose Waldman, who submitted her resignation, effective March 24, as an expectant mother.

Mrs. Jane Dix and Mrs. Helen Kerr have already expressed their intention of retiring at the close of the academic year. Also leaving June 30 will be Mrs. DeAnna Dreilinger and Mrs. Rae McKenna. The appointments of five teachers were approved for the school year 1967-68. They include Mrs. Marie Polignano, Trenton State College; Miss Bonnie Taylor, Mills College in New York; Mrs. Carol Helm, Glassboro State College; Mrs. Janet Rettig, Whitworth College; and Mrs. Ann Elaine Valbaster, Trenton State College.

BUCCI WINS CAB WASH
In Court Decision. Princeton Township's Alexander Road carwash will be built by William Bucci and not by Frederick P. Lawrence, according to a decision handed down Monday by Judge A. Jerome Moore of Mercer County Court.

Both Mr. Bucci and Mr. Lawrence received special permits last May to build carwash establishments on lower Alexander Street. The two properties are almost directly opposite one another.

The two property-owners sued the Township Zoning Board, claiming that approval of the two permits violated the intent of the zoning ordinance. In the suits, each owner asked the court to cancel out the permit given to the other. Judge Moore ruled for the William Bucci Development Company on the grounds that Mr. Bucci had filed for a permit before Mr. Lawrence had. In regard to the plea by Mr. Lawrence, Judge Moore said there was not enough evidence to show he need for a second permit.

FLEES BOROUGH JAIL
But is Quickly Caught. Jimmie Valentine would have admired Theodore O. Turner.

Arrested by Borough Police on Friday for committing larceny on the University campus, the 28-year-old Trenton resident was imprisoned in the Borough jail. However, he escaped during the 48 minutes he was free, he managed to enter Alexander Hall on the Theological Seminary Campus, and steal $185 from a wallet he found lying on a dresser in one of the rooms.

Monday evening, Turner stood before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. to answer three charges of larceny, one of being an escaped prisoner, and one of failing to carry a narcotics card in his possession. The first four were referred to a Mercer County Grand Jury. For the latter, failing to carry a narcotics card as required by law, Turner was sentenced to a year in the Mercer County Workhouse.

A used car is cheaper than a new Volkswagen, until you use it.

That 1964 used something-or-other looks pretty attractive out there on the lot the sunlight shining on it.
And the $1,500 price tag looks pretty attractive too. In case you're interested, that's about $200 less than a brand-new VW I.
They tell you it's the buy of the year.
So you buy it.

A couple of months later you may find out why the car ended up on somebody's used car lot.
Just suppose it turns out all the time. With a new Volkswagen you won't expect that to happen. (And when it comes to changing the oil, you only have to put in half as much.)
Maybe a little later on you have trouble with a faulty radiator. (We don't make Volkswagens with radiators so there's no water to leak out, boil over or freeze up.)
What if the car turns out to be a gas eater? (That'll never happen with a Volkswagen a VW eats gasoline very slowly, at the rate of about one gallon every 27 miles.)
Finally you decide to unload the car. See how much of your $1,500 you'll get back after one year. Then check your newspapers to see how much you'll get back on a one-year-old Volkswagen.
Surprising, isn't it? How expensive a cheap car can be.

passenger. He was apprehended by the campus police at 4:40. Although Turner refused to admit it, police believe it was he who stole a suit from a student's room in Campbell Hall the previous day.

On Monday morning when Pili Douglas Watson went down to one of the three small Borough cells to check on Turner, the prisoner pleaded to him that he was getting in a water main broken near the shower and it was getting worse.
As Watson entered the cell to investigate, Turner ran out, raced up the stairs, fled out the front door of Borough Hall and headed toward the Seminary with Watson in pursuit.
Watson returned to headquarters to sound the alarm and all patrol cars converged on the scene. Turner was seen on Alexander Street near the Seminary chapel and later a call reported him on Dickinson Street. He was apprehended at 8:02-48 minutes after Pili Watson gave the alarm—on the campus of Dickinson and University Place by members of the campus police.
In another theft at 1901 Hall, between 8 p.m. and 3 a.m. on Sunday, James S. Catterall, 30, room 203, reported a tweed jacket, two slippers, a sweater and a rain coat missing.

GIRLS AT PRINCETON? The subject of girls — in this case whether they should be admitted to Princeton University — as only draws a mixed response from the members of the Ivy League. Leonard Spoto (right), who feels the presence of girls on a college campus makes for a better rounded student, Frank Santos disassembles the issue here to study, not to ascertain terms. (Staff Photo)

...would be beneficial to the way around. Not only educationally but socially.

Marcellus Snow, Cambridge, Mass., student at M.I.T.: I think it's a good idea. What reason is there to discriminate against women other than they're women. I feel it's a holdover from the traditional restriction of education to an aristocratic elite. I think American education has transcended most of these archaic ideas.

Richard Cohen, Laurie-Love Hall, Class of '68: Yes! I'm an undergraduate. It would be nice to have some girls around.

Jonathan Kimla, Cranbury, graduate student, sociology: Why not? I don't see any good reason for co-educational schools. I've been to three different colleges — two all male and one co-ed — and it seems to me I had a much healthier social life on a co-ed campus. There's a more relaxed attitude. The weekends aren't so all-important so that it becomes easier to develop a more natural attitude toward having girls around. Weekends are terribly strained at an all-boy school. The guys go out of their way to make a big impression on a girl. They see girls only when they are putting on a big show and a false front. It doesn't make for very honest relationships. A co-ed college also reduces tension during the week, because you're not always waiting for the weekend. It makes it a lot easier to study.

Miss Joanne Stern, Kendall Park, high school student: I cause the idea of an Ivy League school. I'm something unique. I don't think so. I'm just a girl. I don't think so. I'm just a girl. I don't think so. I'm just a girl.

League school. I'm something unique. I don't think so. I'm just a girl. I don't think so. I'm just a girl. I don't think so. I'm just a girl.

Mrs. Ethel Stratton, 37 Wiggins Street, housewife: No, I don't think so. I don't think it's just a girl. I don't think it's just a girl. I don't think it's just a girl.

Frank Santos, Hamilton Square, clerk, Hill's Market, Witherspoon Street: No, I don't think it should. First of all, I had a daughter who graduated from college. I know what the problems are. The boys are here to study, not to fraternize. They have all the time in the world to fraternize if they want to after they get out. They're only here four years. Let them get down to business.

Leonard Spoto, Trenton, meat cutter, Hill's Market: I think it should. Yes, why not? After all, most colleges are co-educational. This way they can have dances and socialize. I really think it makes a better-rounded student.

Question of the Week

Question: Should Princeton University become co-educational?

Where Asked: Around town

Mrs. John Jamison, 180 Franklin Corner Road, Lawrence Township, housewife: In a way, especially in the graduate department, the University stands to gain by becoming co-educational. I think Princeton certainly has something unique to offer, especially in graduate school since there are no women's graduate colleges as such. On the undergraduate level, so many problems arise such as a dean of women and so on. I'm not so sure this would be as easily attained.

Harry Hazard, 8 Autumn Hill Road, Class of '39: No, I feel it would distract the boys from their studies. I know it would. I like the idea of restricting social activities to the weekend and studying during the week. I think boys do better in schools just for boys. Girls do better for different reasons than boys and they might do better at a co-educational school.

Mrs. James Phoebe, 583 Ewing Street, housewife: Oh, no, I think it should stay all male. We have enough co-education at colleges around. I feel Princeton would lose its high standing in the academic world.

Richard Santos, Kendall Park, student: No, I don't. NEW MANAGER HERE
For Chamber Orchestra.
I'm terribly excited about the possibilities of this orchestra," said Gordon Andrews, new manager of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra as he looked over a copy of the orchestra's latest Decca recording, and talked about the orchestra's first national tour.
A retired Army officer, a public relations pro with a keen personal and professional interest in music, Mr. Andrews began his full-time job as the orchestra's new manager on Dec. 1. He has a firm grasp of the economies of the performing arts in 1967.

"What size can an orchestra be, to tour and bring back revenue?" he asks. The answer is just about the 21-man size of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra.
Musicians in the orchestra and their conductor, Nicholas Harnanyi, will start off on March 11 for a tour which will take them as far as Stevens Point, Wisconsin in one direction, and Miami, Florida in another.

The musicians sign up for two seven-week seasons, fall and spring, and this tour will occupy about two weeks of the current spring season.

"About 80% of our engagements will be in college towns," Mr. Andrews observes, as he scans the itinerary.

Coming: "Orfeo." On home ground during that seven weeks, the orchestra will present in McCarter Gluck's opera, "Orfeo ed Euridice," with Maureen Forrester, Janice Harnanyi and Mary Evelyn Bruce—that's on April 26—and will give the British harpsichordist, George Malcolm in his American debut on March 13, also in McCarter. Mr. Malcolm will play the Haydn Concerto in D and the Bach Concerto in D minor.
Also on schedule is a children's program on March 15 with Susan Robinson of Princeton as soprano soloist.

"I hope Princeton's music-lovers really understand this fine chamber orchestra," Mr. Andrews says. "It is a bona fide orchestra, not merely a small group—ensemble, or something. A great repertoire of music has been written for these small orchestras. From the Baroque era right down to the present time."

Mr. Andrews points out that "Orfeo" itself was composed for small orchestra, and that the Princeton Chamber Orchestra's 21 strings can be—and are—augmented by winds or brass whenever necessary. It is possible, for example, that 17 additional musicians with brass and winds, may join the group for the Milhaud Memorial concert on April 30 in the University Chapel.

Mr. Harnanyi, who is musical director of the Bach Aria Group, uses the Princeton Chamber Orchestra for Bach Aria Group concerts, and on these occasions, the original 21 strings are almost always augmented.

On Disc. As a public relations expert, "Mr. Andrews" was an information specialist for the Army and taught press relations to Army men at Ft. Slocum—the new manager of the Princeton Chamber Orchestra is particularly excited about the new Decca album now available in music shops around town.

It's Benjamin Britten's "Les Illuminations" and Norman Dello Joia's "Meditations on Beethoven."
The Princeton Chamber Orchestra as soloists two previous P.C.O. recordings featured Erics Morini in the Brahms Violin Concerto No. 1 and the and on another release, the Dvorak Serenade in E and the Mozart Divertimento in D.

After the tour and the "Orfeo" and the Malcolm concert, it is possible that the orchestra may explore New Jersey in depth—touring the state from north to south.

After that, "Well, I'd like to expand the national tour," Mr. Andrews says. "I'd like to perhaps arrange a tour abroad, and I hope to contact industrial and research organizations for financial support, and I'm keenly interested in taking music into the schools, perhaps with money from Title

I or Title III... as I say, I'm terribly excited about the possibilities of this orchestra."

Mrs. Georgia York is Mr. Andrews' assistant in managing the affairs of the orchestra.

BUMBY TO SING
In Opera Recital, Metropolitan Opera Grand Jury will present songs by Franz Schubert and Robert Schumann at McCarter Theatre, Monday at 8:30. The program is part of University Concert Series I. Standing room tickets are available at the box office.

Miss Bumby first received critical acclaim as Venus in "Tannhauser" at the Bayreuth Wagner Festival. She made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in 1965 in Verdi's "Don Carlo."
Miss Bumby, who started singing in a church choir, includes a nationwide television appearance at the age of 17 among her many credits. She has also appeared at the White House at Mrs. Kennedy's invitation.

THE BIG BAND SOUND
Planned for PHS Concert. In step with the return to the scene of the high school Symphonietta Band will hold its annual big band stage show in the high school auditorium next Friday, March 10, at 8:30 p.m.

As in previous years, the program will follow the old Glen Miller-Chestfield format. The complete range of big band sounds will be featured in ballads, blues, show tunes, swing, jazz, samba, bossa nova and novelties. Jack Horner is the conductor.

Soloists will be Martha Boughner playing "Clarinet on the Town" and Eddie Galick, "Portrait of a Trumpet." Other highlights will include a medley from the show "Fiddler on the Roof," a new arrangement of the old favorite, "Stardust," the Count Basie-Neil Heflin sound on "Coral Reef," plus two novelties, one a spoof of two well-known brands in a number entitled, "Guy Lombardi Plays Lawrence Welk."
Tickets—$1.50—may be obtained at the door or from any band member. Proceeds will be used to purchase new band uniforms.

RECITAL TO RESUME
at New School for Music. The public is invited to attend the student recitals at the New School for Music Study Friday, evening at 8.

Students appearing on the program include Dawn Cooper, Stephen Harris, Ted Hellwell, Sylvia Kriebenbach, Leigh McBride and Larry McPherson. Also performing will be David Palmer, Laurie Herzberg, Cindy Soffen, Diane Timble, Glenn Weisberg and Connie Viol.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
A word of thanks for your use of the "green sheet" ratings at the end of each movie review in recent issues. This is immensely helpful and I do hope it will be a permanent feature.
Besides informing parents and tipping off the youngsters also, as to which movies they might be disappointed in seeing, it may serve the very useful purpose of providing the theater management into scheduling at least one family film per week. It is particularly true during school holidays. If a child is told he cannot see either of the movies showing in town, and it is no answer for the theaters simply to institute a "Saturday matinee special" for the kiddies. Many families would like to take in an evening movie more often. I am sure, but to avoid these occasional small-fr matinees like the plague. Sure, published ratings will influence the theaters.

So please continue this splendid service to local parents and children on a weekly basis. And one more thing: the term "mature youth" is a trifle vague.

Could there be a more precise definition? High schooler? College student? Who is he, anyway?

DOROTHY P. BEENERS

Editors' Note: A mature youth... we're glad you ask and this question... is an adolescent... or post-adolescent... who keeps his cool in springtime.

Swamps "Yes," Jellopts "No." To the Editor of Town Topics:

The February 23rd issue of TOWN TOPICS carried a letter by G. M. Smith which described the actions of the citizens of Morris County in their efforts to preserve the Great Swamp and which bemoaned the fact that such a group does not exist in Mercer County. Such a group does exist and the participants are known as members of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association.

For a mere $10 membership fee the writer or anyone else interested in conservation of our local natural resources may join this august body and know that he or she is doing something laudable toward the preservation of these resources. If membership alone is not enough then a phone call at 466-3100 and an offer to help will be met with even greater enthusiasm.

Yours for more swamps and fewer Jellopts.

Natural Beauty Deplored.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

What G. M. Smith says (letter of Feb. 23 issue) about the depopling of the Millstone River and its banks is all too true. It is a shame, and really quite appalling.

Just above the U. S. Route 1 bridge was such an impressively beautiful area with the biggest of the great trees and the quietness: an absence of human noise; only the rustle of wild leaves, the whistle of birds, and the hum of summer bees to listen to. Can you remember the flash of the red-winged black bird amongst the bullhearts and heliotropes?

For the natural beauty of the place is only a memory. To be seen now in full view are corporation buildings in a desert of grass.

Further Opinions Offered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Perhaps I could clarify my objections to the "Question of the Week" statements of Dr. Eby, whose recent letter (Feb. 23) suggests that he has not fully understood my meaning. I may I point out that any "opinion" which is prefaced by the words "I happen to be a physician" must inevitably be interpreted as, in some way, a professional judgment.

2. Moreover, if good manners there are not a sufficient restraint on intemperate speech, there is a legal discretion — well known to journalists — between "opinion" as printable "fair comment" and "opinion" as "libel."

STEPHEN C. BANDY
28 Witherspoon Lane
Editor's Note: To clarify Mr. Bandy's opinion on libel, TOWN TOPICS' opinion is that Dr. Eby's opinion on Mr. Kennedy's actions was not libelous.

Letters to Mailbox should be typewritten if possible, double-spaced, and must be signed for publication. Those received later than Monday afternoon may be held for use the following week.

BEST TIGER TEAM YET?

This One May Be It. In the 68 years since basketball was first played at Princeton, there have been three teams with extremely impressive records. The 1925 season saw the Tiger quintet that the late Al Williams coached roll to a 21-2 mark for a 300 percentage (although one of the victories—over the Firestone Tire and Rubber company team—would not be counted under today's standards because it was not an intercollegiate contest).

Eight years later, when Ken Fairman was a junior on the team, Fritz Crisler directed Princeton to a 19-3 mark and, another 32 years went by before Bill Bradley's quintet, with Bill van Breda Kolff in charge, recorded the largest number of victories in Princeton history when it won 23 and lost six.

As the week began, Princeton's 1967 quintet had within reach the ability to finish its regular season with a higher percentage than the team of 1925. A victory over Penn Wednesday night in Dillon Gym would mean a scintilla—25-2 record for a percentage of .920.

Success against the Quakers, bringing the Orange and Black to its sixth Ivy championship in the current decade, would send it into the NCAA Tournament's opening round Saturday afternoon, March 11, at Blackburg, Va. The opponent, the winner of the Southern Conference playoff to be held this weekend—possibly but by no means definitely—a West Virginia team that is currently 16-0 on the season. If the Tigers win their opener, the record would 24 triumphs in one season would give them a new mark in the all-time victory column.

Defense, Accuracy Do the Job. The twin triumphs over the weekend that won back the Ivy League lead for Princeton were achieved largely on a return to the fine defensive play and the high degree of shooting accuracy that had marked the first two months of the season. Columbia was held to 21 points in the first half, Cornell to 26. The Tigers, falling from the floor at 55-50 or better in each of the four halves of the two games, broke out in front and remained there, aided on several occasions by some clutch foul shooting.

The Columbia contest delivered that definition for no more than five minutes. At 1:24 of the first half, John Harlow converted a layup to make the score 18 to 2 in Princeton's favor. It was wholly apparent that the Tigers had shaken the tightness that had made life miserable for them during the past three weeks.

Reserves began to take over the half-time score pointed in 45-21, and the bench was cheered while the 79-45 final. So many players have taken part only Joe Heiser with 21 and Harlow and Dave Lawler with 14 points, but double figures from Columbia's point of view, the 32 points separating the teams at the buzzer were the widest in the Lions' 67-year history of the sport.

"He Couldn't See Straight." A broken nose that John Harlow suffered in the Columbia game while diving for a loose ball resulted in his wearing a mask made of rubber and steel for Saturday's big battle with Cornell. Time and again while warming up, and later during the game, he adjusted the unfamiliar protective device and when his first field goal attempt bounced off the rim visibly short of its target, Tiger rovers wondered how much his play would be affected. At the end of the half, he had 15 points; at game's end, he had a 67% floor shooting average, 28 points, and his berline bucket from side court at 11:52 had broken the back of a Cornell rally that had cut Princeton's 14-point half-time lead to six. Outside the Tiger dressing room in the Dillen Gym basement, van Breda Kolff explained to a dozen sportswriters that "the mask had affected Harlow's perception." He added drily, "I hope it continues to."

If Cornell's late junior and league-leading scorer, Greg Morris, had to play against Joe Heiser more than twice in a season he would not be in the top 20 in point-production. Heiser held him to 16 at Ithaca; he made 11 here, but only two in the first half and of the remaining nine four came while Heiser was undergoing repair for a laceration under his eye.

Harlow's superb performance and Heiser's all-around play contributed 17 points on the evening were nearly matched by the fine job that Bobby Brown the Princeton center, doing in each of the bench. Substituting first for Captain Ed Hummer, then for Chris Phomford when they were in foul trouble, Brown grabbed ten valuable rebounds, blocked several potential layups and contributed a three-point play that helped break the game open in the closing minutes.

Cornell Lipped Strongly. Sixteen points down, when Hummer tipped the ball in just after the second half ended, Cornell showed tremendous class in driving back into contention in a pressure-packed game played away from home. The Red peeled ten points off Princeton's lead, and with 10:38 to go, Blaine Astor's junior jumper gave the home team's once - sizeable margin to 56-50.

Harlow's vital field goal, another of his soft shots that rarely judge the rim, gave the Tigers the lift they needed, and when Brown's three-pointer followed three minutes later, the grip they had on the outcome approached the transmutation point.

It was, more than incidentally, Brown's deft grab of a rebound and resultant layup that drew the fifth foul charged to Cornell's E-S Walt Siedle. His departure gave Princeton virtually complete control of both backboards, and at the end of the evening, continued on Next Page.

The Mercedes-Benz 250S: the $6400 status-symbol squelcher.

This remarkable Mercedes-Benz sedan gives you all the virtues of other $6400 cars — without their vices.

For instance, the 250S is maneuverable. It's a full two feet shorter overall than its fat-rival — a fact you'll appreciate in city traffic or close-quarter parking.

Yet inside, five adults ride in comfort, in an interior designed for fatigue-free cruising on long trips.

"The 250S seats," says Car and Driver magazine, "are as good as any in the world."

And you can drive your 250S over back roads without flinching.

You ride on a tough, fully independent suspension system, in a body welded at 10,000 points to resist rattles.

You stop with the surcuss of 4-wheel disc brakes. All in all, the 250S outperforms its $6400 rivals like an athlete outperforms a gang of fat men. And it's built to keep outperforming them years later.

Come in soon for a thorough test-drive in the Mercedes-Benz 250S. It's the $6400 car built for driving — not driveways.

Newest example of Mercedes-Benz performance and safety — the 250S sedan.

the victors had a 47-31 margin in this vital department.

As it has so often this year, a surge by the Tigers gave them all the breathing room they and their 3,000 fans wanted. From Harlow's jumper at 11:32 until there were less than three minutes left, they outscored the visitors, 19 to 7, and that, to coin a phrase, was the ball game. It was an 81-60 final.

Playing catch-up ball Cornell shot often in the second half, totalling 70 field goal attempts during the game to 35 for Princeton. Such a discrepancy can often work against the team on the short end of that count, but this was the real story of the losers' five starters, Gabby Durkac had the highest shooting percentage with 44% of Princeton's starting team, Chris Thomonde had the lowest percentage—also 44%.

had been below full strength for five minutes and 28 seconds.

Brown always led—by 2-1 at the end of the first round and by 3-1 as the final 20 minutes got underway. At that point, Coach John Wilson loaded his top scorers on one line, joining John Ritchie, Terry Peterman and Jerry Kearney together. The move paid off handsomely with a five-goal outburst, but the deficit was too great to overcome.

Kearney got the hot trick for the first time this season. Peterman, Captain Gordy Gladman and Pete Stuckey also scoring for the Tigers. For Brown, Wayne Small accounted for half the visitors' goals as the visitors lowered Princeton to fifth place in the Ivy League, two slots below its finish a year ago.

PDS SKATERS WIN
Bruising Battle with PHS. In 45 minutes of hockey that was always bruising, and often ferocious, Princeton Day School defeated its arch rival, Princeton High School Friday, 4-3.

With two and one-half minutes remaining, sophomore Bill Chivers intercepted the puck, got behind the PHS defense and beat Little Tiger goalie Paul DeGrazia on the breakaway shot. Played at the new PDS rink, the contest was the second between the two schools this season. PHS won the first, 4-1.

The game was marred by excessive penalties. The intensity of the action forced referee John Kerney to call 11 infractions, nine of them against the high school, one a major penalty three and one-half minutes.

"What it boils down to," said PHS Coach Pete Cook "is that we played almost a third of the game — 14 minutes — with a man short. That makes it tough."

was unable to appear. Les Tibbels, former PDS coach, acted as a line man but Kerrey had to call all penalties.

At that point, he was forced to stop play and call the two teams together. "This isn't a wrestling match," he told both squads, "if you continue to play like this, you are going to be called for it. Let's play hockey."

One of the victims of the rugged play was PDS's Evan Donaldson. He was checked hard and will be out for the rest of the season with a knee injury, according to PDS Coach Harry Rulon-Miller.

The first period was dominated by PDS. He was scored on by because DeGrassia executed for PHS in the net. "Paul did a good job in the goal," said Cook. "He kept us in the game when PDS had a lot of chances to score."

Early in the second period, freshman Jimmy Rodgers, of PDS, got the game's first tally, but Bobby Linder tied it on a shot off a scramble in front of PDS net. PDS's Basil Stetson, another freshman, gave his team its second lead but with seconds remaining in the period, Paul Rice, the Little Tigers' scoring star, tied it again at 2-2.

O'Connor Ties Score. With 9:12 gone in the final period, Rice put PHS in the lead for the first time, 3-2, on an assist from the scrappy Linder. But a goal from Robert O'Connor, a sophomore, tied it again at 3-3 to set the stage for Chalevner's winning shot. "PDS has improved a great deal since the first time we played them," observed Cook, gracious in defeat. "They played a lot better hockey, a lot more confident hockey. They moved the puck well; they played a good game, good enough to win."

For the high school, it was their 17th and final game of the season — their first as a varsity team. Most of the team Cook inherited in his first year as coach at PHS was the no-scouts of the hockey club formed three years ago.

Now he will look for his varsity players, including such standouts as Paul Rice, Paul DeGrassia, Charlie Sheldon, Pete Starbuck, Bobby Linder, Henry Sommer, Russ Silver and John Patton.

In reviewing the year, Cook reported, "Even though we had a losing season, I think it was a pretty successful year. After a fairly poor start in which we didn't do well, we were playing good hockey by the middle of the season and that's what's important to me—that we did well."

"I think we played a demanding schedule for a high school — 17 games — and in all I think the boys did a pretty good job," Cook went on to point out that most of the boys in the high school didn't grow up with hockey. "We were often bigger, but generally more awkward than the teams we met," he said.

Satisfying Win. For Rulon-Miller, the victory over the high school was "satisfying." "The team started pretty slowly. We had to do a lot of work to get in the game because the team had just beaten Cranford two days before."

He added that Jimmy Clagburn and Sandy Wandell played virtually the whole game in defense. "They were successful; they skated well for us."

When Cook observed that PDS had improved, the record bears him out. Since his first meeting with the high school, PDS has gone on to win six in a row.

His team's victory over the Cranford Hockey Club last week was perhaps even more satisfying to Rulon-Miller. "Credit that to a team effort," he said. "No matter what they had on the ice it just worked. The people that played just played well as a team. That's played well in hockey until you get up in sophisticated circles."

AFTER ONE YEAR, 1 AND 1: Harry Rulon-Miller (left) and Peter Cook assumed new roles this winter. Rulon-Miller as coach of the Princeton Day School hockey team and Cook as coach of the Princeton High School team. Both are former Princeton University players and presently are members of the St. Nick's hockey club. Their respective teams began what is sure to become an intense rivalry on the ice — if this first year is any indication — with Cook's team winning the first battle, 4-1, and Rulon-Miller's skaters evening the count with a 4-3 victory on Friday. days before and also Wisconsin's YOUNG SWIMMERS PLACE won a victory over PDS.

PDS will get a second chance against Wissahickon, as it did the high school, on Wednesday when it will play its final game of the season. The contest will be held in Chesham Hill, Pa. "We're trying to correct all of our past mistakes," said Rulon-Miller.

In the 4-2 victory over Cranford, Jimmie Rodgers scored a pair of goals. John Taylor, a junior, and O'Connor added single tallies.

One point Rulon-Miller underlined in the Cranford game was the play of freshman defenseman Deebes Young. The game made his first time. The Princeton had scored all season with Young on the ice. It's quite an accomplishment for a freshman.

"That's very important in any game tactics," he continued. "... how well you keep the puck out of the net."

I. D. CARDS ARE READY For Golf Courses, Freeholders Richard J. Coffey, President of the Mercer County Park Commission, has announced that 1967 Identification Cards for county residents are now available. They can be picked up at the Princeton Country Club and Mountain View Golf Course between 9 and 5 daily.

The fee for the card is $3. It may be used at both golf courses.

SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED For Windsor Little League. The registration of prospective team members will launch the West Windsor Little League season Saturday. Boys can sign up at the Princeton Junction Fire House from 10 to 12. All 9-to-12-year-old boys who live in the township and who have not been members of previous teams or who have moved into the township since last season are required to register if they wish to play. Birth certificates will be necessary as proof of age.

Team tryouts will take place April 1 and 2. The season will open with a triple-header early in May.

The first Princeton High School student to enter this meet, he placed 8th in the 100 freestyle and 9th in the 50 yard freestyle.

Andy Bolster captured second in the 50-yard breaststroke at an AAU meet in Baltimore. Bolster holds the New Jersey State record for the 100-yard breaststroke for boys 10 and under.

Other Princeton swimmers who placed in the Trenton meet were Debbie Ryan, 4th in 100-yard breaststroke; Janet Freeman, 4th in butterfly and 5th in freestyle; Margaret Martin, 5th in breaststroke; and Carrie Bolter, 6th in butterfly and 6th in freestyle.

PDS FIVE WINS FAIR

To Climb above .500, Princeton Day School's basketball team won a pair of contests last week to stretch its win streak to three and its own record to four.

Friday the Blue and White upended Morrisport Prep on the latter's home court, 70-64.

"The previous day, PDS defeated a visiting Peddie School javelin team, 65-36.

PDS will complete its 17-game schedule this week. Friday afternoon it will be at Moorestown Friends, and on Monday, in a game that has been rescheduled for the third time, Pennington Prep will invade the PDS gym. The finale will be held Wednesday at St. Bernard's.

All three foes represent tough opposition, especially St. Bernard's, and PDS coach Den Barren said his team would be hard-pressed to break 500 this season. "I'm hoping we can upset one of them," he said.

Page Gets 23, Against Morristown. PDS never trailed. Sophomore Craig Page, the team's playmaker, was high with 23 points. Another sophisticated 20, including 10 for 11 from the free throw line where he last converted 13 of his last 10. Bill Rigot, co-captain, tallied 10 points and added 18, while Rick Ross led in rebounds with 13.

It was a different story 2-point the Peddie Jayvees, where PDS trailed by as much as 11 in the third quarter. Fortunately, PDS pulled its game together in time and ended the quarter with a 51-46 lead. "We alerted on to a hot hand and control the boards," said Barren.

Hostess for the victors was Rigot. He connected on 11 of 18 attempts from the floor to finish with 24 points. Andrews and Page garnered 17 and 13 points respectively, and the 6-1 Ross led in rebounds, as usual, with 18.

Ross defensive play drew praise from Barren. "His ball-hawking and rebounding were contributing factors in our win," he said.

HUN LOSSES FINALE

Looks to Next Year. Playing at Blairstown, the Hun School basketball team lost its final game of the season Saturday to Blair Academy, 69-66.

Had the Red and Black won it would have ended its campaign above the 500 mark with an 8-7 record. As it was, its 7-8 loss was almost the equal of last year's 8-8 record. In Penn-

Pe-Wee Hooper Set

The Princeton Pe-Wee and Bantam hockey teams will play in Baker rink Saturday in a doubleheader starting at 4:30, following the game between the Cornell and Princeton freshmen. The Pe-Wees will face their counterparts from Wissahickon, while the Bantams will entertain a team in their age-bracket from Williamstown, Mass.

Next Wednesday at 5, Pe-Wees from Princeton and Lawrenceville will play at the Princeton Day School rink in a game starting at 5. No admission is charged to these games.

Jersey contests this year, Hun ended 6-5.

"It was a rebuilding year," said Hun coach Dave Leete, in assessing the season. From the start, Leete went with a team comprised entirely of underclassmen. He loses only one senior, Frank Cane, who played only a few minutes the entire season.

Among the returning veterans will be their high-scoring players: Mike McGuire, Don Silverman, Karl Harter and Nat Williams. McGuire is a freshman and the others all sophomores.

"The next couple of years we are going to be tough to beat," said Leete. "I'm looking forward to next season."

Against Blair, Hun won the first half, 30-28, but the home team came back to outscore Hun in the second, 41-18. "We played very well in the first half, but in the second half we went to pieces," said Leete.

"Our shooting dropped off completely."

Silverman was high for the lowers with 12. McGuire had 10.

A 2-2 to 2-2 Lead. Earlier in the week, Hun played its final Penn-Jersey contest, coasting to six easy 6-48 victory after jumping off to a commanding 2-2 lead.

Max Short and Harter paced the Johnny Huns with 15 points apiece. McGuire added 11, while Pete Braveman, Ken Kelley and Williams combined for 19 more.

BOWLING NOTES

Proccocial Rolls 672. Bowling in the B League, Fred Proccocial leveled 268 pins in his final game last week to end with a 672.

His opening games were 204-202.

Albert Petula had 253 and Frank Hoffman, 228-200, while Mike Pinelli and Bill Pinelli each fashioned 223s. Ed Dun Kahny, 208-202.

In the standings, Nassau Del broke its tie with Balestrieri for first place and now leads, 26 points to 34. Princeton Del advanced to the Balestrieri for second, and Smith Bookbinder and Stefaneli are even with 28 points in third place.

Tiger Garage widened its lead in the Nassau League to four points over Princeton Aviation and Cilelli Electric which are tied for second. Both have 30 points. Italian American Sportmen's Club (26) and Bear Brook Tavern 24 follow.

Norm Brown was the leader in the Three-Clan league. He rolled 209-201-223 653. Mike Beale had 205-198 for a 602 and Bill Pisselli had 194-226-183 for a 603. Two tie games were rolled by Frank Maddison (215-202) and Dick Wycoff (206-210), while high singles were recorded by Val Ransallo, 227, and the 223, Jerry Tummar, who had 214.

There is a new leader in the Business Women's League. Basketball won all its games for six points to climb from third place to first.

Last week's leader, Bucci Builders, failed to earn a point and dropped into a second place tie with University Cleaners. They are one point back of basketball, 26 to 25. McKenzie Realty also gained ground to move into contention with 24 points.

Nella Crusier rolled the highest single game, a 201, but Helen Tamasi was the most consistent with a 191-187-166 for a 524. Others: Alice Frasz, 183; Lillian Bell, 180; Diane Fowler, 178-163; and Jean Donald and Barbara Gilliland, 176.

Mary Bartolina converted the 7-9 split. Barbara Picone the 5-10 and Barbara Gilliland the 5-7.

BIG ONE FOR TIGERS

Harvard Beaten in Hockey. As early as eight seconds into the Princeton-Harvard hockey game in Baker Rink Tuesday night, it appeared that a major upset might be in the making. The suspicion was planted by forward Mike Wiggins, who

The Ivy League champion will meet the winner of the Southern Conference playoff at Blacksburg, Va., at 1:30 Saturday, March 11, in the first game of a doubleheader. The second contest will send St. John University against the winner of the Middle Atlantic Conference playoff two hours later.

Channel 11 New York has announced that it will televise a delayed tape of the Princeton game about 4 o'clock, and the game of the Yankee-Orlando baseball game to be televised from Florida. If the baseball game is rained out, it is expected that the basketball game will be programmed live.

slapped a loose puck into the Crimson cage to give the Tigers a quick lead over the highly-regarded visitors.

Nearly two hours later, the teams were locked in a ding-dong 4-3 tie, and less than ten minutes remained in the third period. On the line when Wiggins skates with Jerry Kearney climaxed a lengthy siege around the Harvard net by scoring the Tigers' fifth goal of the night.

It stood up for a 5-4 triumph, giving the Orange and Black back-to-back victories over the Crimson in Baker Rink for the first time since the early '30s. Last year's 6-3 triumph here marked Princeton's first success on ice against Harvard since 1933.

Defensive lapses by both teams were numerous, but they merely served to heighten the tension throughout the evening. The Crimson matched Wiggins' goal on a blue-line shot at 11:41 of the first period, and then took a 2-1 lead into the dressing room.

Less than a minute after action resumed, defenseman Tom Hawis crowned a hard shot from 35 feet out off a Harvard stick, the puck jumping over the goaltender's stick into the cage. Princeton regained the lead at 4:31 of the round when sophomore Jim Taylor rebounded neatly at close range on a shot by Pete Stuckey.

With defenseman John Baker off ice for what referee Vin Crocetti vaguely termed an "illegal check," the visitors drew a 4-3 lead at 9:01 of the action-packed second round. Then, within the space of two minutes, Wiggins got his second goal of the night when Harvard could not cope with the Princeton retaliation from a fast break that beat goalie Regan Kerney from 15 feet away.

With 18 seconds tied at 4:4 as the final period began, both teams had had to break the deadlock. Wiggins' pass from the right alley to Kearney set the decisive play in motion. Kearney's shot bouncing off goalie Bill Dierckx' and Ritchie stuffing it in free and clear.

Harvard applied maximum pressure for the remaining minutes but never had a chance to nullify its goal as the hungry Princetonians con-

HOSPITAL PLACES ETS
To Retain 11-Place Tie. Hospital outstayed Educational Testing, 63-58, in an exciting game last week in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League to preserve its first-place tie with Gallup Poly. Ed Bickick was high man in the Hospital's balanced attack with 14 points. Game high honors, however, went to Clarence Gilbert who had 22 for the losers.

With Princeton High School standout Tom Wood hitting for 18 points, Gallup crushed winners Van Nostrand, 83-35. Bob Smith contributed 19 for Van Nostrand.

Cyanamid outplayed RCA in the second half to nail down a 48 to 38 decision. Charlie Corbett 12 paced the victors, while Jim Wilno garnered 14 for RCA.

Obituaries

Gerard B. Lambert, 89, of Paines Line Road died on February 28 at his home after a lengthy illness.

He achieved national prominence as an industrial and advertising "idea" man, public opinion sampler and yacht designer. He was among the best-known major benefactors of the Princeton community.

Mr. Lambert built his family company, the Lambert Pharmaceuticals Company of St. Louis, later a multi-million corporation. He was responsible for a number of famous advertising campaigns, particularly for Listerine and Gillette razors and blades. The Gillette Blue Blade was his idea.

His three-masted schooner "Athletic" purchased in 1927 from the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, still holds the sailing record of 12 days, 4 hours, 1 minute from New York to the Lizard in England, established in 1980 in the race for the Kaiser's Cup. He owned two America's Cup J-boats, shared largely in the Lambert horse in 1914 and the 1920's, and the Boston-built "Yankee."

His book, "Yankee in England," recounts the 1935 yacht racing season there when he took both "Athletic" and "Yankee" over and raced the English successfully at the various coastal regattas.

During World War II, he worked directly with President Roosevelt on public opinion analysis and in later years was active in opinion sampling for the Wilkie, Dewey and Eisenhower campaigns.

Gave Nurses' Home. His gifts to Princeton include $100,000 for Lambert House at Princeton Hospital, named in memory of his son, Gerard B. Lambert Jr., who was killed in an airplane crash in 1947. Princeton service organizations receive some $100 a year from Lambert-established endowments.

He gave Princeton University $100,000 in 1945 towards the new library, and shared largely in the Lambert family gift in 1929 for James Theodore Walker Hall, named in memory of his sister Lily's son. His former home, "Abraham," completed in 1917, one of the most beautiful of the North Virginia mansions, now houses the Columbus Birchholz School.

Mr. Lambert died at Princeton Hospital as Princeton Borough's first longest-living man, which he built in the late 1930's, demonstrating to the Federal Housing Administration that private capital could be used for low-rent dwellings.

Native of St. Louis, Mr. Lambert was born in St. Louis on May 15, 1886, the son of John and Mary W. Lambert. He was graduated from Smith Academy, St. Louis, in 1904, and Princeton University in 1908, where he was a member of the Ivy Club. He married Rachel Love in Fiebigbaum Mass. The couple had three children, Rachel L., now Mrs. Paul Nelson; Lily, now Mrs. John G. McCall, and a son, Gerard B. Jr. He was divorced from the present Mrs. Malvern B. Chapin in 1934 and in 1938 married Grace L. Mull.

Mr. Lambert served as president at various corporations, including the Lambert Pharmaceutical Company of St. Louis, the Lambert Company, which he founded, and the Lambert and Feasby Advertising Agency, which he formed with Milton Feasby, and the Gillette Safety Razor Company.

From June 1938 until February 1939 he was advisor to the Federal Housing Administration in Washington. He served as Executive Director, Chairman of War Production Board from March 1942 until October 1944.

Served in World War I. He founded the Institute for International Social Research, Inc., in Princeton, N.J., in 1918, for the purpose of applying to the field of international relations the procedures he had found invaluable in the advertising field. He was a frequent writer of articles of effectiveness of appeals to the consumer.

During World War I, he was a first lieutenant in the U.S. Army Air Service, attached to the Royal Air Force in England. He continued as a captain in the Air Service Reserve Corps from 1918 to 1920.

In addition to his account of the Yankee's racing season, he wrote the successful "Warrior in Newport," and in 1956 published his autobiography, "All Out of Step," written at the age of 70.

A Report from 1st Trenton National Bank

MORTGAGE MONEY

There has been much talk about "tight" money, about a shortage of money for mortgage loans. We believe these reports to be exaggerated.

During 1966, we continued to serve our customers and, to the best of our ability, to meet the needs of our community. During the year, we made mortgage loans of $11,000,000, 34% more than in 1965; all on properties in the Mercer County area.

In 1967 we are continuing our active mortgage lending policy. We have ample funds available and our terms and rates are fully competitive. If you are thinking of building or buying a house—or so as a $99,700, or visit any of our eleven conveniently located offices. (See the phone book for the office nearest you.)

Profile of a Woman Insurance Agent

The prospective woman agent having a better-than-average chance to succeed in life insurance appears, in profile, like this:

She is between the ages of 30 and 45, mature enough to understand and be able to talk to men and women about the financial problems of life.

She has at least 5 years' experience in the business or professional world, preferably in the area she is to serve, and is familiar with the vocabulary of people who earn a living.

She understands the silent prejudice against women who seek responsible positions above the minor supervisory level.

She must be able to empathize — not sympathize — with women in circumstances similar to her own. This business experience helps her to treat the "me's" in life insurance sales interviews objectively rather than subjectively.

She is singularly unattached. She may be divorced, widowed, separated, or be a dedicated single woman careerist.

She must be a woman who is disturbed, not emotionally, but one who is dissatisfied because she has reached a position ceiling or a salary ceiling, and who likes money, needs recognition, and seeks self-expression.
